(b) Distinguished Indian architect, combined English & Indian design. Maharao Umed Singh II, ruler of Kota in Rajasthan, India, decided in c1900 to build a new palace at Kota, the architect being Sir Swinton Jacob who had built Lallgarh Palace in Bikaner. Illustrations of Lallgarh Palace are on file. Huge red rocks were mined in the desert for the building which began in the last year of Ganga Singh's minority (late 1800's). The palace incorporated the ornate Indian style & intricate filigree work along with luxuriously appointed Victorian rooms. The alace was paid for by the profits from the railways & coal mines that the young Maharaja established (a).	Swint: Ch.1E, Sh.4	ACS-Swintons of that ilk B. Copley Rec.
