W.S. 1830, Sept.: Proclamation of marriage announced at Fochabers, Morayshire. 1830: Worked as a Parliamentary agent in London while qualifying in England Law. Family friend was the Australian explorer & Surveyor General of NSW (Aust.), Major Thomas Mitchell (b) 1838, Nov. 13: Sailed for Australia in the 'Royal Saxon' leaving behind his wife who gave early birth to their son Farquhar P. McC. & who was ill following the birth. Georgiana was to follow on later when she recovered. 1839, Mar. 21: Arrived in Sydney but despite a letter of introduction from Lord Glenelg, he did not gain a government appointment (b). c1839-40: Bought land in New Zealand with Georgiana's money by lost most of the proceeds (b). 1841: Rented 'Argyle Cottage' which the family moved into when they fanally arrived in Melbourne. Land was bought on the Yarra River to build a home. Andrew also bought land in the centre of Melbourne for his office. Andrew went into partnership with James Montgomery to establish a legal practice. 1840: Was a committee member of the Melb. Mechanics Institute: Secretary of the newly founded 'Pastoral & Agricultural Society of Aust. Felix (founded in January). He was also elected to the provisional committee at the public meeting in March when a public hospital was first being founded, the meeting being chaired by Gov. LaTrobe. In May he moved the formation of a joint stock company, the Melbourne Water Works. He also committed to the movement to bring about the separation of Port Phillip from NSW. 1844: McCrae Homestead was built on their pastoral lease at Arthurs Seat, Mornington Peninsula, Vict. It is now a National Trust Property, recognised because it is one of few surviving examples of an early squatters home. The home was designed by Georgiana herself. (a) The homestead was lived in by the family from 1845-1851 (a). By 1849: the McCrae's leasehold at Arthurs Seat was 21,360 acres, however they failed to make a living from it and so returned to Melbourne in October 1851. 1851, Sept.: Andrew was appointed by Gov. LaTrobe as Police Magistrate at Alberton, Gippsland, Victoria. He had previously served as a territorial magistrate at Arthurs Seat. The family did not move there with him but remained in Melbourne. 1854, Jan 4: Gazetted to leave Alberton for Warrambool which he did not take up. 1854, Sept.: Given post as Police Magistrate at Hepburn, so he moved to Creswick Creek then in 1857 he was transferred to Kilmore. The family continued to remain in Melbourne. 1860's: He was Warden for the Goldfields: Protector of the Chinese & Chief Magistrate at Kilmore. 1866, Dec.: He retired & was given a purse of 100 gold sovereigns (b) On retirement Georgiana decided that she wanted separation From Andrew so he returned to England for 7 years, travelling and seeing family and old friends before returning to Melbourne in 1874, Jan. (b) He was obviously ill and Georgiana looked after him till he died a few months later. 1874, Jul: he died of Nephritis and is buried in Boroondara Cemetery, Kew (b). During the American War of Independence John was taken prisoner (1776). He had settled on St Johns River but subsequently was captured and imprisoned by the Spanish. Though his wife Sarah had lost her sight, she did all she could to have him released, but finding her efforts to no avail she then did all she could by sending letters to mitigate his loneliness. She wrote to the Governor of Cuba pleading his case ultimately winning his release (b, c). 1781: marr. by Rev. Mr Henderson. Mesa, Fresno, California, 93711, USA	Was a member of what became known as the "Hell's Angels" 303rd Bomb Group (H) in the US Airforce during World War II. The group adopted the name from the first B-17 to complete 25 missions against Nazi Germany. The name of the plane was "Hells Angels". On completion of the 25th mission the plane returned to the US for a Bond Tour to support the war effort. The name was not related to the bikie group who came later.
