in the 2nd/23rd Battalion, 9th Division which was formed at Albury, NSW & was called "Albury's Own".

1940, Nov. 17: He sailed for the Middle East where he fought at Tobruk & El Alamain.

The Soldiers at Tobruk were referred to as the "Rats of Tobruk". It was a name that an English speaking German propaganda broadcaster, Lord Haw-Haw (William Joyce) gave them, saying that they lived like rats in a hole.

1943, Feb. 26: He returned to Australia & after spending time in camp in Queensland, he left in August to fight in New Guinea. He met up with his brother, Duncan, while there. He returned to Australia in March 1944 and was finally discharged from the army on Oct. 3, 1944 with the rank of Corporal.

After being discharged he returned to the farm for a while.

1954: He left the farm to run a shop at Narrawong. Perhaps this was when he "moved to Portland, Vict., & started a General Store, but the competition of the Coles & Fosseys Store Chains made it very difficult to compete".

After marriage he adopted wife's son Graeme PAUL.

1963: He moved to Moe, living at Yallourn, Vic. working with maintenance

Section of the State Electricity Commission (SEC): & also ran a Taxi business at Moe.

1977: He retired & moved to Phillip Island living in a cliff top house at Sunderland Bay.

During retirement he ran wood working classes at San Remo for the Senior Citizens; also making wooden toys for charity.

2002/3: Jim collaborated with the Australian Broadcasting Commission (ABC) TV on the making of a documentary film called "Love Letters from a War", which was part of a series, "Australian Families". The program was about John Johnson, who was with Jim at Tobruk (The Rats of Tobruk) where they were fighting against the odds being heavily surrounded by the German Army. The film was based on letters John wrote to & received from his wife & children. At Tobruk contact was lost with a frontline outpost and John, Jim & a third chap were sent into the desert to see what had happened. At the frontline John ran from their armoured vehicle and jumped into the trench but everyone there was dead. While running back to the vehicle John was shot in the back by a German sniper. Jim jumped out, ran over to him, & carried him back to the Armoured Bren Gun Carrier. John died in Jim's arms on the way back to base. Jim was mentioned in the program a number of times. The documentary was completed and due to go to air on the Sunday night after Jim died. Jim's daughter Pauline was able to organise to get an early copy of the film which Jim was on the hospital television a few hours before he died.

2003: After a funeral service at the LaTrobe Valley Funeral Services Chapel, he was buried in the ground at Moe Cemetery, Victoria.
